Your guests make snap judgments about the health and cleanliness of your facility. And nothing reinforces the truth about housekeeping and concern for guest comfort than fresh paint in common areas, guest rooms, and food service areas.

In the competitive hospitality industry there is always a newer facility going up or a complete renovation taking place right in your backyard. Maintaining your status as a premier facility means demonstrating your high standards to regular customers. Fresh paint is one of the most visible and economical ways to say we're number one.

HOTELS

Depending on the type of facility, season or occupancy fluctuations, Alpine can engineer a repainting project with minimal impact on your operations and guests. Take a wing out of service or go one room at a time. We can even use low odor coatings and put double crews on any project to minimize the need to take rooms out of service.

Common areas can be painted during off hours. A "stealthy" crew can even paint hallways in the wee-hours and hardly be noticed.

BANQUET FACILITIES

Let Alpine paint your grand ballroom and make it ready for tomorrow afternoon. We have the manpower to complete any project around your full schedule. Kitchens and other staging areas say a lot about the kind of operation you run.

Much like the work we do inside Churches and Synagogues, big meeting rooms present special challenges. Our crews have done jobs similar to yours many times before. We can prepare and paint a room and get it back in "revenue generating" condition without missing a beat. In other circumstances we can do our work in stages around the scheduled functions of that particular room.

RESTAURANTS

Like other hospitality facilities, the interior and exterior in active restaurants can take a beating. You and your employees just don't see the day-to-day, minute effects of regular wear and tear on surfaces like your customers do. And, even the best maintenance crews miss spills and stains. Accumulated blemishes detract from the decor and compromise the good food and attentive service.

Your restaurant is an extension of your patrons' kitchen, a place to enjoy and be most comfortable. Make sure your high standards include the paint on the walls in dining rooms, rest rooms or front entrance, any place your customer can see is a point on which you will be judged.
